Asahi SUPER DRY 0.0%

Asahi Super Dry was spectacularly launched in 1987 and quickly became Japan's No.1 beer where it remains today. We are proud that our innovative brand has become a global icon of progressive Japan. SUPERDRY introduced a new style of beer to Japan and perfectly describes how our authentic Japanese beer is dry and crisp with a quick, clean finish. And as well as quenching your thirst, it also prepares your palate for what comes next. In 2023, Asahi 0.0 was launched delivering the same crisp signature taste with zero alcohol.

In Rome, 1963, Bira Peroni first brewed what was to become their greatest and most famous export: Peroni Nastro Azzurro. Created to reflect the emergence of Italian luxury in fashion and design, it was designed with the sharp, sophisticated beer drinker in mind. Peroni Nastro Azzurro is gently brewed to give an intensely crisp, refreshing taste with that unmistakable touch of Italian style visibly demonstrated by the light proseccostyle colour. In 2022, Peroni Nastro Azzurro 0,0% was launched to bring the authentic and unique PNA taste in a non-alcoholic variant.

Milling

In the brew house, different types of malt are crushed together to break up the grain kernels in order to extract fermentable sugars, producing a milled product called

2

WaterPreparation

The presence of minerals is critically important to the final flavour. Soft water with low mineral levels is ideal for pilsner-style lagers. When brewing ales, it is best to have water with high levels of sulphates, calcium and other ions.

Mashing

The grist is then transferred to a mash tun, where it is mixed with heated water. The process uses natural enzymes in the malt to break the malt's starch down into sugars.

Boiling

The mash is then pumped into the lauter tun, where a sweet liquid (known as wort) is separated from the grain husks. The wort is brought to a controlled boil before the hops are added. Depending on the type of beer, the wort may be boiled up to three times.

Cooling

After boiling, the wort is transferred to a whirlpool where any malt or hop particles are removed to leave a liquid that is ready to be cooled and fermented.

Fermenting

As the fermenter is filled, yeast is added. The yeast consumes the sugars in the wort and produces alcohol, flavour and carbon

How we brew

Filtering

The beer is filtered in order to remove all solid particles. The result is a crystal clear, brilliant and dazzling beer.

Serving

Temperature, glassware, speed and angle of serve vary depending on the beer, but are all crucial to the perfect serving. Great tapsters take pride in delivering the perfect pour every time.
